Abstract

The source of expertise is a teacher. A teacher plays an important role in the production and growth of nations. Nobody has ever denied the importance of a teacher in the evolution of humanity and science. A teacher has been at the forefront of the educational system since the beginning. A teacher is respected for his contributions to the growth of the next generation, society's well-being, the development of humanity's spirit, and individual training. Every moment, the teacher becomes absorbed in instructing his students as a gardener intends to his plants. Teaching is a profession that has a prominent place not only in Islam but in every religion and society in the world. However, it is a universal truth that world knowledge has never exposed the true importance and status of a teacher in the same way that Islam has made people aware of the teacher's high status. The teacher is regarded with great honor and reverence in Islam. The glory of the Holy Prophet as a teacher is represented in the Qur'an by Allah, the Exalted. "I have been sent as a teacher," the Holy Prophet said. In Islam, the teacher holds a very high and important role. Since he is a teacher and mentor, Islam has given the teacher the title of a spiritual father. This study aims to clarify the role of a teacher in the light of Seerah and to explore how a teacher plays an important role in the creation of a person's personality. For this reason, an empirical analysis of the current situation and as well as the viewpoints of students of the University of Sufism and Modern Sciences, Bhitshah, Matiari were examined. The questionnaire method was used to gather data in the form of student opinions. Ten questions were produced, and 120 questionnaires were distributed among 120 students to learn about their thoughts on the subject. 80 responses were received from selected students. The collected data was analyzed in the form of a statistical result; the conclusion of the analyzed data was presented in various diagrams. That is proven that today's teacher is sincere with his profession and he is fulfilling all the responsibilities of a good teacher. Majority of students said that they are satisfied from the behavior and teachings of today's teacher. So that is why the designed hypotheses of this research was proven wrong by the analyzing of collected data.

This research work can be significance work for readers and scholars due to its specific field.

1. Introduction

The term "teacher" is the four-word mix that governs the whole community. This single personality holds the key to society's decline and growth. This one person is responsible for all of the incredible inventions and improvements were seen in the modern world. The teacher is a strong leader. Allah Almighty has entrusted a teacher with a tremendous amount of responsibility. In our religion of Islam, the role of a "teacher" is different from anything else. Allah says that "Read, 'O Prophet, ' in the Name of your Lord Who created. created humans from a clinging clot. Read! And your Lord is the Most Generous, Who taught by the pen, taught humanity what they knew not".¹ The importance of reading and teaching cannot be denied in Islam.² If a teacher so desires, he will lead the community to the level of growth that it needs. The world's best teacher has shown how to lead his students to success throughout history. A good teacher does not only teach textbooks to students but also learns a variety of skills outside of the curriculum through his ingenuity and research. He is responsible for training his spiritually, psychologically, morally, socially, and in all aspects.³ Actually a student who is most influenced by the identity is his teacher after his family. The student learns from his teacher the values of culture and morals that alter the course of his life. The more charming and great the identity of a teacher will be, the superior and more positive the impact will be on the students.⁴ The student follows his teacher in building his identity and pays extraordinary consideration to each word that's expressed in his language. When a teacher improves and trains students by high values, integrity in the teaching process, personal appearance, personal interest, and interest in the teaching process, his personality would be ideal.⁵ The teacher must avoid lying and stick to the truth in order for the student to avoid lying and develop the habit of telling the truth. When communicating with students, the teacher should always be gentle and kind.⁶ Softening and hardening the tongue has far-reaching effects and implications. As a result, the Prophet (PBUH) frequently encouraged his disciples and relatives to speak softly and strictly prohibited the use of harsh words. And in reaction to bad things, he disliked saying negative things.⁷ Teachers should avoid jobs in the economy that the Shari'a considers to be inferior or disapproved of. Don't do something that could lead to them being convicted. Avoid doing anything that seems to be flawed and repulsive, even though it is legal and correct. This is because doing so impacts their self-confidence as well as their self-esteem. There can be no useful and successful teaching method unless there is a spirit of national reconstruction behind it. It is not only the teacher's duty to come to the classroom and to teach them. He also has the duty of instilling reformers in society through education. A teacher must possess the spirit of building society inside himself, as well as an understanding of society's shortcomings, demands, and needs. In order to communicate moral messages to students, he should set goals in their light and then concentrate on his target accordingly.⁸ Islam has made human beings aware of the high position and status of the teacher. At the same time, Islam has given immense honor and respect to the teacher. The Holy Prophet (PBUH) said that "I was sent as a teacher".⁹ At another occasion Hadrat Muhammad (PBUH) said that "Allah Almighty didn't send me as a hard worker however as an teacher who is simple and kind to individuals".¹⁰ In Islam, the status of a teacher is very high. Islam has given the status of spiritual father to the teacher because he is a teacher and mentor. At an occasion the Holy Prophet (PBUH) stated that "I am like a father for you, teaching you".¹¹ Amir al-mu'minin Hazrat Umar was asked that in spite of being the caliph of such a large Islamic state, there is still a longing in his heart. He said, "I wish I would have been a teacher."¹² The status of a teacher in Islam is very high and respectable. It is a teacher who trains a person after his parents and takes him to the heights of success. Therefore, it is the duty and responsibility of a teacher to nurture the minds of the students better and at the same time to acquaint the students with moral values. Similarly, students have a responsibility to respect their teacher. This exploration work can be valuable and potential with respect to its field.
